

Devo: Are We Not Children?

Jan 11, 2006

Story by: Jesseka Kadylak

New Wave cult icons Devo are bringing their devolution to a new generation with a just-for-kids CD/DVD collection. On Devo 2.0 (out March 17 on Disney Sound) all five original members of the band have re-recorded some of their classic '80s hits (cue "Whip It") with a quintet of kid singers. The accompanying DVD includes animated and live music videos directed by original bassist Gerry Casale, and both the DVD and the CD feature Devo's first new tracks in 20 years, "Cyclops" and "The Winner." The first Devo 2.0 video, for Devo's (or Devo 1.0's, we guess) "Whip It," features electric beaters instead of leather whips, thus turning the metaphorically-naughty song into kid-friendly entertainment. Also notable is the replacement of Devo's trademark flowerpot hats with sideways baseball caps, thus finally proving Devo 1.0's theory of devolution to be entirely true. If you need your Devo 2.0 fix before March, check out their three-day stint in Agoura Hills, CA.
