The Talk Featured On The O.C.

Dec 01, 2005

Story by: Jesseka Kadyak

The Talk, Charlotte's pop-rock trio on MoRisen Records, will be featured on the December 1 episode of Fox's emo-smash The O.C. The episode, titled "The Game," will use the song "N.Y.L.A." (from the Talk's sophomore album The Sinners of Daughters) during a scene where Ryan (Benjamin McKenzie) and Marissa (Mischa Barton) discuss her college essay after a surf competition. We're sure this heady moment will be followed by: a.) passionate soft-core porn or b.) a Jerry Springer-esque battle royale. The Talk are obviously pleased to be on the career-launching show. "It's cool," said Justin Williams of The Talk. "A lot of bands I respect have been on that show." The O.C. is not the first show or film to be graced by The Talk's music, as ABC Family's Wildfire, and the films Dee Dee Rutherford and Waiting also feature their North Carolina rawk.
